UC Updates

Annie Huerta, Senior Assistant Director
UCLA Undergraduate Admission
UC is pleased that the number of students who prepare for UC and recognize the value of a UC education continues to grow!

- 111,600 freshman applications to UC from CA
- Latinos were the largest racial/ethnic group among CA – a 37% increase
- Increase in applications from low-income families (42%) and nearly 47% of applicants indicated they would be the first in their family to graduate from a 4-year university
UC Comprehensive Review

Campuses Look For
• Strong grades, test scores & course preparation
• A comprehensive educational experience

Assess Student Within Context
• Educational environment
• Available resources and opportunities
• Not just from responses to the personal insight questions.
Enrollment Growth

Although the UC application pool is competitive, UC is creating more spaces for California freshman and transfer applications

• For fall 2016, UC enrolled 5,000 more CA residents
• For fall 2017, UC is planning to increase total CA residents by 2,500
• Increase in applications from low-income families (42%) and nearly 47% of applicants indicated they would be the first in their family to graduate from a 4-year university
Support of DACA and Undocumented Students

UC welcomes and supports students without regard to their immigration status

Applicants are considered for admission without regard to their immigration status and will be offered admission in a manner consistent with our nondiscrimination policy and without regard to a student’s race, color, national origin, religion, citizenship or other protected characteristic.
Tuition and Financial Aid

An increase for fall 2017 has been approved by the UC Regents

- $282 increase in tuition
- Systemwide student fee will go up $54
- Most students won’t pay the tuition increase
- All money raised will directly benefit students
The questions that students chose to respond to were distributed equally across the board.

This was the result UC was hoping for; given the choice, students would respond to the questions that were most applicable to themselves.
